MS-1

Bagley family

Barnes family, Bagley family, and Preble family papers, 1811-1939.
1 1/2 Boxes (5/8 shelf foot).

Seafaring families in Woolwich, ME.

Papers of the Barnes, Bagley, and Preble families primarily relating to seafaring activities and family business throughout the nineteenth to early twentieth centuries. The majority of the papers are centered on two captains, William Barnes (1797-1882) and William Henry Bagley (1838-1884). These are papers that revolve around the seafaring activities of these two men. William Bagley married William Barnes' daughter, Laura M. Barnes (1843-1884). Bagley and his wife were lost at sea when the Levi C. Wade (ship) went down in 1884. The collection also includes the land deeds of a number of Preble family members. The Prebles are related to the Bagley and Barnes families. There are some later papers, dating to the early 1900s, which deal with financial affairs.

Gift of the Sarah Bagley Bousfield Estate in 1967: G67.2228-G67.2240, G67.2356-G67.2357. More material came from that Estate in 1969 - G69.3262-G69.3279. Later additions are gifts from Dr. Charles E. Burden in 1970: G70.153.36-G70.153.39.

Sailmakers, shipbuilders, and ship owners of Thomaston, Maine
This collection contains the business records and vessel papers of the Dunn & Elliot firm of Thomaston, Maine. The firm began as a sailmaking partnership between Thomas W. Dunn and his cousin, George W. Elliot, then expanded to include a shipyard. Dunn & Elliot also managed the vessels they built, almost all of which were coasting schooners trading locally or down the Atlantic coast to the West Indies. The collection contains bills and correspondence from the sailmaking business as well as records of ownership, construction, insurance, accounts, correspondence, and other material from vessels managed by the firm.

Bequest of Captain W.J. Lewis Parker. Smaller groups of material donated by Eleanor Houston Smith, Charles E. Burden and Douglas W. Hawes, and purchased by the museum in 1987 and 2018.

 Three volumes.

Captain from Portland, Maine.

Two of the three volumes are a handwritten copy of this autobiography. The third volume is a revised, bound, and mimeographed copy of the handwritten volumes. The autobiography follows Captain Lindsey from his birth at Little Harbor Beach on Mount Desert Island through his fiftieth birthday. It is full of vessel names and homeports including both Maine and non-Maine vessels and places. Over the course of the manuscript, Captain Lindsey chronicles his trips mentioning islands and ports visited. These landmarks are mostly New England, but also include ports ranging from Canada to Cuba.

Shipbuilding company in Bath, Maine between 1894 and 1920.

Records and vessel papers of the Percy & Small shipyard in Bath, Maine. Percy & Small built some of the largest wooden sailing vessels in the world including 7 six-mast schooners, 15 five-mast schooners, and 19 four-mast schooners. Percy & Small were also ship owners building 16 of these vessels for their own fleet. The bulk of the collection are of vessel papers including construction specifications, summaries, and accounts. Also included are two accounting journals, a few general invoices, labor invoices for repairs of other ships and a small number of ephemeral items.

Bequeathed by the estate of Capt. William J. Lewis Parker in 2006.

 Ship carpenter and builder in Bath, Maine.
 This collection contains accounts, bills, deeds, and correspondence of David Curtis (1805-1872). Curtis was a mid-nineteenth century Bath shipbuilder who worked for John Henry, Arnold & Co., and Curtis & Cox. The collection is particularly detailed regarding the construction and operation of the Lisbon (ship), launched in 1852, a ship timber-buying trip that Curtis took to Saco in 1839, and deeds for the purchase of shipyard and other land in the south end of Bath in the 1850s. There are some domestic accounts and correspondence, but much of the rest of Curtis's career is covered sparsely if at all.
